Report

4 July

The work group met at 9 in Naples and got the Pozzuoli Prison at 9.30. After the security check we entered the prison and after the welcome coffee, the group started the visit.

The visit started from the garden named green area: where the convicts once a month meet their children.

After the group visited the church, we are entered in the block, here the group visited the kitchens and the convicts that worked in the kitchen. The women who work inside the kitchen explained their job in the prison, during the visit the convicts showed to the group that in the kitchen there was a wood oven and they explained that in the prison there is a training to become a pizza.

The visit continued inside the prison, the group visited cells and he could to talk with prisoners. The prisoners showed their cells and explained their daily routine; showed the areas where detainees could see the television, playing cards, talking etc etc.

The work group was able to speak with convicts about their condition inside the prison.

The visit continued in the Lazzarelle factory. The work group met the women who work inside the factory and they explained the process for roasting coffee and their experience as Lazzarelle workers.

After the lunch the work group had a workshop with the manager of the prison and her staff; she explained the organisation and the typology of the prison, the number of the population, the typology of population, the typology of training provided to inmates and the approach used for their re-entering in the labor market.

After the workshop the group came back to Naples

5 July

Second day started with an interesting keynote lecture by Professor Barbara Lawrence from the Department Justice & Policy Studies of Guilford College. She knew our project through Polish partner. She decided to participate our final meeting to explain the American prison system. For us it was very interesting so we were able to compare the European system with the American system. Participants asked their questions what they want to learn about American prison system its procedures and its VET System. She answered and participants took note about American prison system.

After the lunch, the meeting has continued with a discussion about how to organize the final report.
